

Milk Ghee Ojas : Jaya Kula's Monthly Giving Program

Cows are revered in India because they give milk.

Milk cream produces butter which refined, yields ghee. The essence of ghee is ojas—the superfine substance that gives strength, endurance, vitality, clarity, a feeling of well-being and the capacity to express generosity and compassion.

Milk Ghee Ojas (MGO): How it works

- MGO members give a recurring monthly donation to Jaya Kula.
- Once you are an MGO monthly donor, you have already contributed to all live and online satsangs, pujas, fire ceremonies, mantra chants, and other group practices and rituals. You don't need to make individual donations for these, unless you are so moved.
- MGO is open to those who have attended a minimum of two live teachings with Shambhavi, or who have watched a live-stream satsang as guests of current MGO members a minimum of two times.
- Once you are an MGO member, you will be invited to watch a closed, live-stream broadcast of Shambhavi's Sunday satsangs. If you cannot make it to a live teaching, you can watch from wherever you have access to the Internet.
- You will also have access to a password-protected section of the Jaya Kula website where you can listen to audio recordings of Shambhavi's mid-week satsang.

New!! Friends at live-stream satsang

MGO members can now invite non-member friends to live-stream satsangs. Here's how it works.

- Invite a friend to watch the live-stream with you in your home.
- Friends may attend up to two times. After that, they must become a member of MGO if they want to continue and also get access to the audio satsang page.
- At the moment, no cash donations are accepted from friends attending a live-stream satsang with an MGO member. Just let your friends know that if they wish to donate for satsang, they can do it on the website via Paypal.

- Do not give friends direct access to the live-stream, or the password to the audio satsang page. This new possibility is only for inviting friends to watch with you.

Three ways to give - Donation Levels

Ghee: You are the sweet nourisher and refiner of virtue. You give $80-119 per month.
